STYLE & MATERIAL

Contemporary architectural evolution constantly requires new materials which can keep up with the demands of the times. Continuous floorings and coverings made by SIVIT resin offer solutions which can meet the more challenging architectural requirements and confer style and character to any space, whether indoors or outdoors. The multi-layered systems and high-quality products achieve a perfect balance between aesthetics and performance.

Available in multiple formulations and combinations, resin can optimally adapt and respond to the many different requirements of contemporary architecture.

THE TIME IS NOW

Choosing resin means freeing yourself from the technical and aesthetic limitations of traditional flooring solutions. Resin offers a wider choice of materials and finishings applicable to all surfaces, even the more complex ones.

Resin leads to wider space feel, and confers simplicity and formal elegance. It allows you to introduce easily new textures and colours in order to create and renovate spaces which are always in harmony with the evolution of your style.

Resin is versatile, highly customisable and eco-friendly. Thank to minimally invasive interventions and quick set-up times, it obtains impressive high-performance floorings.

SIVIT SINCE 1974

SUPERIOR QUALITY PRODUCTS

Since its foundation in Turin in 1974, Sivit has been producing and selling resin compounds for industrial flooring.

In time it further expanded and consolidated its presence on the international market, developing solutions and cycles for a wide segment of industrial, commercial and civil sectors.

Nowadays the result of a continue evolution of chemical research is dedicated to a wider range of specific products for civil applications, transferring high performance and quality standards, declined in several solutions tailored for civil architecture.

Sivit combines its production and supply with technical and post-sale support services; therefore customers do not only receive a product, but also a reliable service that makes it possible to achieve the best results.
